HIGH PRAISE FOR WILSON.

High praise for the leader of the Democrats for the past eight years has come from the pen of two Republican leaders.

Mrs. Christine Bradley South of Frankfort, and Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio, have signed an endorsement giving Woodrow Wilson credit for achieving the triumph of the "votes for women" cause.

The endorsement to which Mrs. South has signed her name reads:

"Today Woodrow Wilson stands forth before the nations of the world as the commanding force for justice and a world democracy. He goes now to perfect that which has been baptised with the fire of battle and sealed with a covenant of blood—a world wide democracy, a democracy in truth of all the people."

No More Ugly People.

In the year 2000 there will be no more hooked noses, upturned noses or stub noses, except upon the faces of people who don't care what kind of a smell they wear.

Dr. Armette, who has been conducting experiments no noses for five years, makes this announcement. By that time, says the doctor, the knowledge of patching up bad-looking noses will be so widespread that almost any country surgeon will be able to straighten out a homely nose within less than two weeks.

Dr. Armette's most successful operation was upon a young girl whose schoolmates had poked fun at her because of her long nose. When she emerged from her bandages eight days later her nose was of normal size and bore no trace of the knife.

On With the Fight.

Press dispatches tell us that for months a bitter fight has been waged by the retailer and the consumer against the manufacturer and the wholesaler.

The bone of contention is the lowering of prices.

The consumer is tired of paying profiteering prices for everything he buys. He is calling a halt by curtailing his expenditures.

The retailer realizes this and feels the loss of trade through the determination of the consumer to buy only absolute necessities until such time as prices return to normal.

The retailer is as desirous of a reduction in prices as is the consumer, and is fighting the manufacturer and the wholesaler to this end.

The latter, however, appears to be loath to surrender his excessive profits, and is holding out to the end.

That end, when it comes, may possibly be a federal grand jury indictment of profiteering.

The government, the retailer and the consumer, when working together, are decidedly more powerful than the manufacturer and the middleman.

Stubbornness and greed may succeed for a time, but it gets a jolt in the end.

War Mothers Back League.

The National Board of American War Mothers strongly endorsed the League of Nations at their Convention held at the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville on October 2. The resolution adopted by the National Board to be submitted to the State Organization for ratification is:

"Whereas millions of boys were called to the service of the country to fight a war to stop war, therefore, be it resolved that the National Board of War Mothers go on record strongly endorsing the League of Nations, the only thing that stands for world peace."

Mrs. James Didney, Vice-President of the War Mothers, called on Mrs. Samuel M. Wilson, Democratic women's Chairman, at the headquarters here, and reported that North Dakota would certainly go Democratic, because of the fact that the non-partisan League had grabbed the Republican party in that State.

TEN REASONS

Why Veterans Should Back Democrats Given by Governor Cox.

Ten reasons why former service men should support the Democratic national ticket, prepared by Gov. James M. Cox, were made public by the Democratic National Committee.

The ten arguments were included by the Democratic Presidential candidate in the following letter to the Argonne Post, weekly newspaper, Des Moines, Iowa.

"There are no ten reasons—nor, indeed, any other number of reasons—why a former service man should be either a hide-bound Republican or Democratic partisan. I cannot refrain from uttering my sentiments on this point before proceeding.

"Uncompromising partisanship would dry up the well springs of that healthy public sentiment which has made America. It would make men slaves to those who formulate the party policy and would forever stagnate the intellectual development of our people.

"I believe in political parties and I have affiliated myself with the Democratic party because I have agreed with its tenets as to government. I shall, therefore, with your pardon, give you ten reasons why an exservice man should support the Democratic candidates:

"Because they have constantly talked the broadest principles of progressive development, conforming to the spirit of the century for independent political judgment.

"Because its candidates have never said, and never believed, that sentiment recently uttered by Senator Harding, when he said 'too much is heard of independence of politics' "

"Because in this year the Democratic party represents the honor of the country, because it believes in keeping faith with the living and faith with the dead, faith with our allies and faith with our foes.

"Because the Democratic party stands for a League of Nations the existing league, to end war, to compose differences by adjustment of wrongs through the processess of world opinion.

"Because it would have America assume its rightful place at the head of the nations of the world, unafraid to take its place as a leader.

"Because only through the League of Nations can order be brought to the world, and because the failure of the league will cause us to revert to international anarchy and huge competitive armaments which are the inevitable breeders of war.

"Because the Democratic candidates despise to appeal to racial bigotry.

"Because the Republican party leaders have unblushingly appealed to the disloyalists of the United States and are unashamed to hold their power in the United States Senate by reason of the vote of a man found guilty of violating the law in obtaining his seat in that body, Senator Thrumman H. Newberry, Michigan.

"Because the Democratic Administration wrote into the laws of the country the Federal Reserve Act, the Farm Loan Act and other pieces of legislation that enabled it to muster the resources of the country at a critical time so that all Americans, regardless of party, might win the greatest of all wars for humanity and for high principles.

"Because, notwithstanding that many conditions are not ideal, America is at this hour the safest place in which to live, the most desirable and the best from every standpoint, and because it will come through progressive evolution to a still higher plane of development despite the attempts of reactionaries like Senator Harding to stop it."
